The venue: CCD Congress Center Düsseldorf

The CCD Congress Center Düsseldorf, which is one of the largest congress venues in Germany, is in the immediate vicinity of Düsseldorf’s trade fair facility. The Rhenish metropolis’s airport is only three kilometres away and Düsseldorf’s historic old town and magnificent shopping street, the “Königsallee”, are only five kilometres from the CCD. A modern public transport network provides rapid connections in all directions. The Congress Center Düsseldorf offers exhibitors and trade visitors modern facilities and quick connections, making it the ideal location for ITSC 2017.

ITSC 2017: Thermal spray experts come together in Düsseldorf

The “International Thermal Spray Conference & Exposition” (ITSC) is the most important networking platform in the world for the field of thermal spray. From 7-9 June 2017, international experts and decision-makers from the sector will convene in the Rhenish metropolis of Düsseldorf. The CCD Congress Center Düsseldorf provides the ideal venue to host the specialist talks and the exposition held alongside the conference, which is being organised in 2017 by Messe Essen on behalf of the DVS (Deutscher Verband für Schweißen und verwandte Verfahren e. V. – German Welding Society).

About ITSC

The “International Thermal Spray Conference & Exposition” is an event hosted by the DVS (German Welding Society) and the TSS (Thermal Spray Society ASM International). The organiser of the exposition held alongside the event in Europe is Messe Essen. The International Institute of Welding (IIW) has agreed to offer its support as the sponsor for ITSC 2017. ITSC, which is an English-speaking event, is held on an alternating basis either by the US association, the ASM Thermal Spray Society, or by the DVS in various locations around the whole world. Combining a conference with an accompanying exposition creates the perfect environment to facilitate an intensive exchange of knowledge. This once again highlights the significance of ITSC as a leading international industry meeting place.

Showcase your company at the ITSC exposition and the industry forum

“Thermal spray paves the way to the stars!” is the caption for ITSC 2017. During the three-day conference, top-class speakers from around the world will share their latest findings and solutions related to thermal spray processes. In parallel, you will have the opportunity to present your products and solutions to the trade visitors. The exposition which will be held alongside the conference, organised by Messe Essen, offers the ideal platform to showcase innovative solutions and applications to industry professionals. Here you will have the perfect opportunity to reach your target groups in the field of thermal spray.

As an exhibitor at ITSC you will also be able to hold special talks as part of the Industry Forum held in Room 14 of the CCD, giving the professionals a closer insight into your product innovations. Use this opportunity to present your product solutions in detail and to demonstrate them in practice.
